The Dirt On Mert-- Jilt Doesn't Hurt, But That Biology!

BY MARC JUSTICE

Mert was one of my buddies. Before the accident, that is.

With her nimbly prancing on all six legs on my copy of Of Mice and Men while I strummed on a guitar we were terrific. But sometimes "bull session" specialists thought we were slightly screwy—all because Mert had to be born a mosquito!

I can't forget the night we met.

It was raining. I remembered my window being open so I ran upstairs to my room and as I flung (threw) the door open I saw her. Mert was standing on the radiator rubbing her legs (the second and third one on her left side) and shaking her antenna. I could only gasp until she yawned and said, "Hey close the door, you wanta give me pneumonia?"

Mumbling, "Oh, Oh sure," I pushed the door closed. Then I got indignant. I got tough. I got hard. I asked her if she would mind getting off the 1 shirt I was drying on the radiator.

She did and from then on I was her favorite "buzz-friend."

Gradually I found out what she liked and what she didn't like. I looked forward to her scratching at my window every night so she could climb into her little bed—the match box under my library. I never asked her where she had been but I was curious.

One night when she came in she was crying. Tucking her into bed I whispered, "What happened?"

She said, "I've been jilted."

"No!"

Mert continued, "Yet, my boy friend, Morton, has gone. He ran, er, flew off with a torch singing 'skooter'."

She forgat Morton. About a week later G. J. (General) Jackson came in. He looked at Mert and leered, "Hi!"

Mert waved her antenna in his direction.

Jackson wasn't going to put up with a cold shoulder. He looked at her and said, "Mert, I am under the opinion that the scrutinized situation of your presence here is incomprehensible. Right?"

Mert then made a classical statement. She said, "B-z-z-z"

One thing made Mert a popular West Dorman. It was her amazing ability to concentrate and study. She often sat down and did all the thinking for guys on their homework. She wasn't particular; doing outside reading, term papers, anything. Anything, that is, except biology. She one time confided to me that she couldn't get biology down.

I don't know to what heights she may have gone if it hadn't been for my mistake.

One week-end I went home. Mert helped me pack and saw me off. She wanted to go down to the bus station but I wouldn't let her take a chance on being swatted. Instead, she stayed in the room.

Three days later I came back. I opened the door, called, "Here, Mert," and waited for her to fly into my arms.

But she didn't! Mert was missing.

I made a frantic search; in all the familiar places, the match box, the paperweight she used to study on, the radiator, but she wasn't there.

Suddenly I saw her! She was lying on her back, her feet in the air. She was, sad to report, gone.

After the shock I doped it out. With all the windows shut Mert had been forced to eat whatever she could. Nothing, it appeared, agreed with her except paper. She was lying on a copy of my biology exam.

Miss Juanita Walton, queen of the 1951-52 Petit Jean. She was crowned by Dean Sears at the yearbook dedication Thursday.

Miss Walton Crowned Queen of Year Book: Dedicated to Mattox

Dean L. C. Sears climaxed the Petit Jean dedication ceremonies by crowning Miss Juanita Walton queen of the 1951-52 yearbook in a colorful program yesterday.

Miss Walton, the nominee of the TNT club, is a senior from Auvergne. She is secretary of the senior class and member of the WHC club.

Attendants to the queen were Misses Shirley Pegan, candidate of the Delta Tota club, and Janie McGuire, nominee of the Koinonia club. Miss Pegan is a senior from Hillsboro, Ohio. Miss McGuire a junior from Prescott.

In another highlight of festivities master of ceremonies Phil Perkins, Petit Jean editor, announced the dedication of the yearbook to Dr. F. W. Mattox, Dean of Men.

The annual program, held this year in sunny weather, had a capacity audience. Photographers lined up the royal walkway to the throne to photograph the queen. Coronation music formed a background for the marching and recognizing of high school and college "Who's Who" honorees.

College "Who's Who" honorees were Honor Students: Cecil May Memphis, Tenn., and Audrey McGuire, Searcy; Freshman Class Favorites: Paul Magee, Piggott, and Norma Smith, Lubbock Tex.; Sophomore Class Favorites: Norman Hughes, Crestview, Fla., and Julia Hawkins, Piggott; Junior Favorites: Bob Anderson, Chicago, Ill. and Joan Smith, Abilene, Tex.; Senior Favorites: Jimmy Massey, Ponotoc, Miss., and Alice Straughn, Oklahoma City, Okla.

"Best-All-Around Boy was Bob 'Scooter' Manasco, Palestine, and Best-All-Round Girl was Dot Tulloss, Cleveland, Tenn.

Academy "Who's Who" winners were Wittiest: Joe Lewis, Mission, Kan., and Marilyn Sasser, Montgomery, Ala.; Cutest: Jackie LeCoutre, New Providence, N. J., and Don Burr, Oklahoma City; Favorites: David Rhodes, Searcy, and Verna Vaughan, Granite, Okla.; Best-All-Around: David Rhodes and Betty Warfel, Tolona, Ill.

Honor Students were C. L. Cox, Searcy, and Lynne Whatoff, Oklahoma City.

Train bearers for the queen were James Baxter and Frank Silvey. Lynn Rhodes carried the queen's crown.

The yearbooks are to be distributed today. Perkins revealed that this year's Petit Jeans have white and maroon covers. Special feature is a two-page color spread of the new Auditorium-Administration building.

Activity Tickets Bring "Big Name" Entertainers Here

Erie Moore, music department head, today released a list of entertainment for next year which will be covered by the Student Activity Ticket set-up. The list includes both definite and proposed entertainment.

Moore, in releasing the list, commented, "The entertainment next year promises to be much better than ever before."

The number of programs next year will be increased. In addition, the entertainment will include more nationally known artists, Moore added.

So far there are two definitely planned dates. These are the General Platoff Don Cossack Chorus, scheduled for December 5; and the Ferrante and Teicher Duo Piano Team to be here February 13.

The programs Moore is still working on are the Barter Theatre's presentation of "The Merchant of Venice," Enchanted Strings, the only all-girl string orchestra in the U. S., and either Dunninger or Polgar, both world-wide mental experts. In addition, there will be five Harding productions and an opera produced by the music department.

Another outstanding program is still being planned. That of bringing Dr. James P. Conat, president of Harvard University and famed lecturer to Harding.

To Attend Work Shop

Mrs. E. R. Stapleton has announced that she will represent Harding College at the North Central Work Shop this summer.

Mrs. Stapleton stated that her project will be a study of the general education program as applied to Harding.

Chorus To Take Summer Trip; Points West Are On Itinerary

Approximately 36 members of the small chorus will leave the campus Friday, June 6, for a two weeks trip to points west, Dir. Andy Ritchie has announced.

On Friday evening they will sing in Shreveport and on Saturday, in Greggton, Texas. Sunday programs are in Ft. Worth in the afternoon and Wichita Falls in the evening.

On Monday, the 9th, the chorus will sing in Roaring Springs and Amarillo and on Tuesday, Portales, New Mex., and Lubbock, Texas.

A program will be given in Rosewell, N. M. on Wednesday and Albuquerque on Thursday. Friday's program is uncertain but on Saturday the chorus will sing in Pueblo, Colo.

Sunday, June 15, programs will be presented in Colorado Springs and Ft. Collins, and on Monday they will sing in Denver.

Tuesday, the 17th, is uncertain. Wednesday, a program will be given in Pratt, Kans., and on Friday, June 20 they will return to the campus.

A tentative list of those making the trip are Alice Straughn, Corone Brown, June Woods, Florence White, Dot Mashburn, Wanda Green, Mary Jo Hare, Marie Jenkins, Liz Holt, Joan Hayes.

Benson Speaks To Civic Club Members

Dr. Benson reports that during the past week he has addressed two civic groups in Arkansas and Tennessee. He spoke to 100 members of the Rotary Club and their wives at a dinner in Heber Springs on Tuesday. His topic was: "The Essential Factors in Human Welfare."

The other speech was delivered at a luncheon in Memphis on Wednesday. Dr. Benson spoke to 200 members of the Kiwanis Club on the topic "Citizenship Responsibilities in Our Generation."

Holton To Present Silver Whistle In Auditorium, Wed.

Wright Has Lead Role;
Supported By Big Cast

BY SARAH LONGLEY
"Silver Whistle," a three-act play by Robert McEnrod, will be presented Wednesday evening, May 4, at 8:30 in the New Auditorium.

Directed by Miss Nelda Holton, the play takes place in the garden of a church managed old folks' home.

It is the story of the people in the home and tells how Oliver Erwenter, the principal character, comes to the home with the purpose of making the oldsters feel younger. He accomplishes this—along with a few comical difficulties and proves to them that life is worth living up to the age of 77.

Ray Wright, a veteran on Harding's stage as of this year, is cast in the leading role of Oliver Erwenter. Other principals are Meredith Thom as Mr. Beebe, Mrs. Hammer played by Louise Zinser, Jane Sutherland as Miss Hoadley.

Mrs. Sampler is played by Ruby Lee Ellis, Mr. Cherry by Benny Holand, Mrs. Gross by Jackie Filan, Mrs. Tripp by Pat Rowe, and Mr. Watson by Jack Plummer.

Minor parts are played by Charles Pitman, Ernie Wilkerson, David Porter, Jeff Martin and Sam Haynes.

The setting is being arranged by the stage-craft class. Although not elaborate, it will be much better than what has been used all year, Miss Holton stated.

"Jose Ferrer played the part of Oliver Erwenter on Broadway," Miss Holton said, "It is well known as Mr. McEnrod's first hit and has had a very successful season. I'm sure that everyone will enjoy it."

Everyone is urged to attend this first major production in the New Auditorium. Harding alumni will be given free tickets and students will be admitted on their activity tickets. Adult tickets are 50¢ and down-town students are admitted for 35¢. Tickets are on sale by members of the Campus Players.

Ware And Futrell Win War Bonds In Contest

Farrell Ware and Bob Futrell have won $25 war bonds in the Gem College Contest, Professors N. B. Cope and Leland Waters announce.

The contest was sponsored by the American Safety Razor Corporation for college students of made up the "Doll House" cast.

Commencement Day Climaxes Week's Homecoming Festivities; Academy Exercises Are Separate

H. S. Graduation To Be Tues. Night; Diplomas Go To 27

BY JUDY DAY

The graduation exercises for the Harding Academy seniors will take place Tuesday, June 3, in the High School Auditorium. The ceremony will open with Andy T. Ritchie, Jr., leading the invocation. Following that, a chorus composed of members of the academy and the college chorus will sing the processional "Land of Hope and Glory, and the hymn "Lo a Voice." C. L. Ganus is the speaker for the occasion.

Perry Mason, superintendent of the Academy, will present the diplomas.

Bill Cook, director of the Academy chorus, will sing "End of a Perfect Day," and Ed Sewell will pronounce the benediction. The chorus will complete the program by singing the recessional "Lead On Oh King Eternal."

Seniors especially honored are C. L. Cox and Lynn Whatoff, who have the highest scholastic average. Those in the citizenship club are: Della Morris, Joe Lewis, C. L. Cox, Miriam Draper, Andy Ritchie, III, Rita Baldwin, and Verna Vaughn.

The graduates of the senior class are: Andy Ritchie III, president; C. L. Cox, vice-president; Verna Vaughn, secretary-treasurer; Jane Brummitt, Marilyn Coward, Dorothy Davis, Robert Duncan, Olan Ray Fullerton, Grover Guillot, Mary Ruth Herron, Norman Herron, Nelda Hixon, Frances Johns, Robert Jordan, Gene Julian, Betty Leopold, Jimmy Payne, Guy Peak, Joyce Stuckwisch, James Tuttleton, Jacqueline LaCoutre, Doris Vance, Ann Warr, Lynn Whatoff, Ann Wholford, Barbara Arnett, and Judy Day.

The senior class sponsor is Mrs. Pickens.

Little Bit O' Whit

Bison Readers Receive News Before It Happens

BY MARY ANN WHITAKER

It is always difficult to decide what to write for a final column of the year. Naturally everyone expects you to put some windup touches concerning what a good year it has been, a review of the happenings, etc. That is the conventional way, but I don't think I will shatter any illusions if I admit that I am not much for following conventionalities. I had rather go on and pretend that this isn't the last issue of the paper, and promise you exciting things to come in next week's paper.

We will be conducting a campus-wide poll in "Question of the Week" on the question, "In your estimation exactly what qualities of Pogo best fit him for the role of President of the United States?" To wind up this poll we have a statement from the famous statesman himself.

Bill Bell will begin a revealing series of 13 articles on "Have Subversive Elements Crept Into Our Student Government?" Bell, who has covered the meetings of the council for the Bison this year, will answer the questions that have been uppermost in our minds all year. Are there any "fellow-travelers" in our campus government? Is the money from our activity fee actually being spent as we have been told it is? What about the charges of corruption and graft in government?

The "big story" next week will be on the new features to be included in the summer school repertoire. Plans are under consideration for starting classes at 10:00. All classes of course will be held in the library and student center, as they are air-conditioned. There will be no 11:40 classes and afternoon classes are being done away with.

The D. C. will disband for the summer and a student equivalent of this faculty committee will handle student discipline problems.

Judy Day's column "Strictly Collegiate" will feature pointers she picked up while on a tour of the John Roberts Powers Modeling Agency.

In view of our regular columnist, Chris Elliott, leaving us, Inez Robb has agreed to let us run her syndicated column "Assignment: America." Her column is styled after Elliott's "Assignment: Harding."

already begun. A large number of visitors and former students were on hand Thursday for the annual baseball game between the Major League regular season champs and the P. E. all-stars. In the exciting game J. C. Roe, nephew of the famed "Preacher" Roe of Brooklyn Dodgers, and Gene Jackson, a member of this year's graduating class, matched one-hitters. Roe, however, struck out 16 batters and won the game 1-0 before an overflowing crowd.

Earlier, the dedication of the 1952-53 Petit Jean, with editor Phil Perkins as master of ceremonies, had attracted a large number of visitors.

Two one-act plays, directed by students, Miss Pat Rowe and Jack Plummer, also was attended by visitors.

Class Reunions

The get-together will also serve as reunion days for all former students; and especially classes of '27, '32, '37, '42, and '47. Registration for these classes and other graduates will begin in the Ganus student Center Wednesday at 8. The chapel program at 10 o'clock will be under the direction of the '27 graduating class. The chorus will also have a reunion and will join with the present chorus in a program.

"The Silver Whistle," under the direction of Nelda Holton, speech department teacher, will be programmed Wednesday at 8:15 p.m. in the new auditorium.

Sites of the activities will be the Mayfair Hotel, the Student Center, student and faculty homes, and the new auditorium. See the box on the front page of the Bison for details.

The sports page will feature the game to be played next week between J. C. Roe's Cardinals and "Preacher" Roe's Brooklyn Dodgers. Read "One Man's Opinion" for an interpretative report of the game.

Next week's Bison will feature a special comic strip section. If you have any preferences, get them in early as Herb Dean will do the illustrating.

This column will give a complete, intelligent, accurate, thought-provoking, lucid, timely insight into the recent wardrobe-raiding fad which has become prevalent on other college campuses. There has been a careful psychological and social study made of this situation and the facts will be presented in this column next week.

Remember the Bison is first with the news (we print it before it even happens). "If there isn't any news, we make some (up?)."

Statement of the week: Overheard from a coed as she watched the workmen put lights on the new Auditorium: "This is the most enlightening college campus in the United States!"

FAMOUS LAST WORDS

If you don't know an answer just leave a blank. You will have plenty of time to come back and fill it in —By Herb Dean

Private! Seniors Only —

Four years of your lives have been spent in preparing yourselves to make a living for the rest of your lives. How prepared do you feel? You have your doubts? The wonderful thing about that is, so does everyone else. The majority of you have never had the responsibility of having to make your own way. It is only natural that you should have doubts as to your ability to make a success in life.

If you are worried because you don't think you have learned anything in college, don't. It is expected that a college graduate will forget 90% of the things he has studied in school within a few years. You will forget the date of Napoleon's defeat at the Battle of Waterloo, but there are other things you have learned that you will not forget.

Living with your roommate has taught you how to get along with people. Bull sessions have brought you in contact with the thinking of your fellow men. Being away from home and parental authority has taught you a measure of responsibility. You have developed self-control—in short you have developed into men and women.

Even more important, while here at Harding you have learned to live the best possible life—the Christian life. You have been under the guidance of Christian men and women who have had a personal interest in you.

These are the things you have learned in college that will stick with you and these are the things that will help you in the “profession of living.”

Posies To Editors Posthumously

We of the Bison staff feel that we have had a good year. We feel this has been possible largely due to the efforts of two people—Editor Kathy Cone and Managing Editor Lin Wright.

They are the two people who took upon themselves the responsibility of getting the paper out each week. We know of no others who could have done the job more faithfully.

There was a great deal of sacrifice on their part. It meant missing important class lectures, neglecting studies, and devoting what free time they might have had.

Perhaps few people actually realize how many times they have had to put up with late copy, or—even more important—how many things depended on that copy. Sometimes the people who knew better than anyone else the importance of meeting deadlines were the very ones that disappointed the most. In spite of all these tribulations the Bison always came out (even in the face of a tornado).

To those two people we would like to say “thankx.” Thanks for putting up with our excuses; thanks for writing those stories we failed to turn in; thanks for writing over those stories we did turn; thanks for everything—and incidentally, we are going to miss you. Here is farewell to two good strong right-arms.

How Shall We Believe ?

By CECIL MAY, JR.

This afternoon, tests begin. Wednesday, for about three-fourths of us, it will all be over until next year. Thursday, for about one-fourth of us, it will all be over. This same group will never be all-together again. I have looked at some people, who have grown very dear to me, for the last time; and to every senior who has crossed my path since I have been at Harding, I want to say, “Thank You.”

Your influence has been almost all good. I have seen a few things that I did not like this year. Some of them you already know about, because I have told about them here.

I saw a few boys who would occasionally steal an extra dessert. I heard a few stories that I would have been better off not hearing. I heard a few words that would have been better off unsaid. I saw a few people steal some information from another person's paper on tests, once on a Bible test. But not once do I recall any of these people being seniors.

Perhaps that means that I was not around at the right times, but I don't think so. I think it means that very few people can live for four years in a Christian environment such as we have here without either absorbing it and becoming a part of it or havin to leave. Again I want to say to every senior whom I have seen, and that is all of you, “Thanks.”

To Bob for carrying me to Russell so many times and for prodding me when I lagged behind:

TRIO

MEREDITH THOM

So you're packing, have you forgotten anything? Tooth brush, socks, and by all means don't forget your pencil. During the summer you will probably see things that you have never seen before and wouldn't see again. Some of these you will want to take note of, for future paintings. An artist must be observant and a pencil sketch will help your memory after the scene has left. I know a book illustrator who forgot her camera on her vacation trip and as a result came home with a wealthy supply of sketches.

Bob Morris' recital was a fitting climax to the recent musical events. His musical showmanship is decidedly outstanding. I regret that I haven't covered this field in the past year as it should be, but I have had an impossible task and failed. My majors are art and speech, so the complications are obvious.

“SILVER WHISTLE” directed by Miss Holton will have a one night stand. Wednesday, June fourth at eight-thirty the curtain will rise for the performance of Ray Wright, Pat Rowe, Jack Plummer, Gene Robinson, Louise Zinser, Meredith Thom, Ruby Lee Ellis, Jackie Filan, Benny Holland, Jane Southerlin, Charles Pittman, Ernie Wilkerson, Jeff Martin, David Porter, and Sam Hanes.

This is the type of comedy that you leave with that “warm” feeling deep inside you. It has taken a great deal of work and sacrifice to bring you this production at this time. Among those who have and are still doing the limitless back stage work are David Porter, Bill Clark, Ruby Lee Ellis, Pattie Mattox, Benny Holland, Ernie Wilkerson, Charles Pittman, La Verne Crowson, Sarah Copeland, and many, many more!

So long, this is where I came in. It was nice seein' ya again.

JACKIE RHODES
GRADE SEVEN

Since my last column appeared in the Bison, several interesting things have happened. The four upper grades, accompanied by Miss Lee and Mrs. Martin, made their annual educational tour. We went to Memphis in the college bus and visited interesting places there, including the Ford Assembly Plant, the Pink Palace, and the Commercial Appeal Office.

Last week with Mr. Bob Manasco, the 7th and 8th grades made a vocational

To Kathy for being so patient with late columns and even for giving me this chance to let off steam:

To Lin for a wonderful letter that he wrote “just because he likes to write:”

To Louise just on general principles:

To Patti and Rees and Wendell and Jimmy (both of them) and Phil:

To so many others, close friends and casual acquaintances, whose names I am not permitted by space to include: “Thanks and thanks again.”

In this, the last column of the year, I want to impress upon you again that phase of Christianity which I consider most important, if, indeed, it can be divided into different phases. The purpose of our religion is to save souls. It cannot save souls unless it is taught.

Count at the rate of one number per second. One . . . two . . . three . . . four . . . five . . . At each count hundreds of people are dying . . . Count them . . . One . . . two . . . three . . . A lot of those people have never heard of Jesus Christ. Hardly any of them have heard His gospel as He intended it to be taught. Most of those people will be eternally lost in hell. What are you going to do about the ones that are still living?

And now I join with the beloved apostle in the closing verse of the Holy Scriptures:

“The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all,” until we meet again.

Last Friday night the rhythm band, directed by Mrs. Cathcart, presented a good program.

In chapel, members of Mr. Baggett's Symphonette group gave a program. Jack Rhodes played a piano solo, “On the Road to Mandalay.”

The annual P.T.A. luncheon was held on the lawn by the Library last Saturday. There was a big crowd of people and lots of good food.

A group of five boys, directed by Mr. Bill Cook, sang in the high school chapel last Saturday. The boys were James Bennett, Bob Silvey, Jack Rhodes, Gerald Casey, and Bobby Meurer.

I sure have enjoyed telling a little of what goes on at the Training School. So till next year, I wish you lots of luck and happiness.

★ Your Screen
Reviews . . .

by EILEEN SNURE

*“Singin' in the Rain”.

Since self-kidding hasn't been, up to now, one of the liveliest attributes of the U. S. motion-picture industry, relatively few satires based on the Hollywood scene have found their way into the projectors. So it comes as a pleasant surprise that “Singin' in the Rain,” not only ribs the daylights out of California's pretty people and quaint customs, but stacks up also as one of the happiest Technicolor musicals you're likely to see this year.

This has been a good season for Metro's music-color department. First, “An American in Paris” introduced a novel and refreshing touch to the screen—and wound up with a hatful of academy awards—and now this one, presented by almost the same production team, looks set to repeat, if not do better, all its predecessor's popularity.

“Singin' in the Rain” goes back to Hollywood's industrial revolution of 1929 for its fun. It spoofs that period when the movies, having found a voice that didn't always synchronize with its screen images, plunged hog wild into a reign of terror in which careers toppled overnight, old stars faded, and new ones were created on no firmer foundations than good looks and voices that were not too displeasing to the public. Specifically, it is the story of a popular romantic team of the silent screen, the lady member of which spoke with a Billie Dawn squeak from an intellect to match. It is the story of how this little lady was equipped with a voice and how the “voice” figured in the romantic life of her co-star.

The mainspring here, is, of course, Kelly, who has created an affable character out of an ex-burlesque comedian who becomes the romantic lead. It has been difficult to harness it into a subordinate role, but whatever Don does is always entertaining. Debbie Reynolds, a chorus girl who becomes a movie queen on the strength of her voice, has the least colorful role of the quartet, but Jean Hagan sails through a hearty comedy performance as the peroxidized and perverse movie star who doesn't dare open her mouth in public. Put “Singin' in the Rain” near the top of your should-see list. It merits it.

BY JUDY DAY

Judging from various articles I have read, I would say that no fewer than 12,000,000 words have been written about what a girl should do when she has very little time to prepare herself for an unexpected date. Rub the face with ice cubes. Jump into a hot bath, jump in a cold bath, then top it off with a lukewarm bath, all the while anointing oneself with preparations from ten thousand bottles.

But what about the man she's going to meet on the unexpected date? Has anyone told him what to do? Man is just as vain as woman, but nobody helps him out in this time of distress. He wants to look pretty, too. All the advice he's ever been given is to shave, see that his trousers are creased, his shoes shined, and that he has a few bucks in his pocket.

In this last column of the year, I should like to tell you men how to get ready for the sudden date.

First, remove the look of the everyday world from your face by washing it with a mixture of half imported Caviar, and half ground up Crackerjacks. Rub away from your chin toward your eyes. When you can't see, stop. Be sure that you'll be at your very freshest by liberally dousing yourself with vanilla extract and tabasco sauce. This combination results in a dominating masculine scent redolent of Yosemite Valley and hitch-hikers.

Before going out, place a sprig of Alaskan fir in your hatband. This will impart a subtle outdoorsiness, and if women don't like the outdoor type, advertising companies have been on the wrong track for fifty years.

Just before you leave take one final glance at yourself in the mirror. See that the spot on your tie is covered up by your coat. Tell yourself to remember not to hitch your right trouser leg too high, lest it should show the hole in your sock. You still have five minutes, so don't be in too much of a hurry. Run back and give your shoes another lick with a brush or flannel cloth, and, above-all, make a final check on your accessories to see that they match. Women are very critical when it comes to accessories. Are your wrists the color as your hair? Do your eyes match your socks? Does your watch band go with your undershirt? There are the little things that set a man apart and bring appreciative glances across the booth in the Student Center.

Now you are ready to go. Practice a broad happy smile. Practice poise. As a final touch, dab your forearms with a touch of imported spaghetti sauce, and go to meet the girl with complete assurance.

OF THE WEEK

Conducted by BOB FUTRELL

“BREATHES THERE A MAN WITH SOUL SO DEAD THAT NEVER TO HIMSELF HAS SAID.....?”

Buddy Meyers: “I'm Chawed!”

Mary Nell Hogg: “I give up!”

John Davis: “Will I ever catch up!”

Muriel Bush: “Nutts with these books!”

Jeanne Darling: “I can't take Harding's lighting system!”

Shad Ransburg: “Meet me at the White House!”

Jim Starks: “I'm not going to shave anymore!”

Ronald Kurtz: “What's up, Doc?”

Bill Shipp: “Them's my sentiments!”

Cliff Ganus: “Please cut the “toes” from off my head!”

Ken Rhodes: “Es” todo-Esto muy male!”

Peg Strane: “O'rally!”

Sarah Longley: “Well, I ain't never!”

Sammy Floyd: “I can't take it sitting down!”

Ken Leopard: “Wonder if the D. C. is after me?”

Max Vaughn: “Is school ever gonna let out?”

Mary Ann Whitaker: “When I have fears that I may cease to be

Before my pen has glean'd my teaming brain,

Before high piled books, in charact'ry Hold like rich garners the full-riped'n grain;

When I behold upon the night's starr'd face

Huge cloudy symbols of a high romance, And think that I may never like to trace

Their shadows with the magic hand of chance;

And when I feel, fair creature of an hour,

That I shall never look upon you more, Never have relish in the faery power Of an unrelenting love—Then on the shore

Of the wide world I stand alone, and think:

What a dumb question of the week.”

Letters To The Editor

To The Boys Of Armstrong Hall:

May I ask a question? Why is it that men who come to college and who are supposedly responsible, intelligent and well-mannered beings act like a bunch of heathens.

Tonight a very regrettable thing happened. The girls of Harding College came over to the boys dorm to sing. They went to a lot of trouble in order to get to do this, but I'm afraid they won't be back anymore. Why? Well, just stop and think how they were received.

In case you can't remember I'll refresh your memory. Water was thrown on them, lights were shined out of every other window, trumpets rang out like a brass band sending off a train load of troops, and men (in the loosest sense of the word) shouted very ill-manneredly. Where are your manners men?

I can just hear some of you now. Your laughing up your sleeves and thinking how stupid this article is. Well, just go ahead and laugh but just as a matter of common decency you should show your appreciation to those who show their thoughtfulness by going to the trouble to even come over.

We owe them an apology, but that would be hard to do since we don't know who all came over, but we can at least learn by our mistakes and think the next time we fall in line and follow a small group of attention seekers who literally go wild at any unusual occurrence.

ROBERTSON'S RENDEZVOUS

Roe, Jackson Match I-Hitters; Roe Fans 16; Wins 1-0 On Pass

Cards Edge Stars Before Big Crowd

BY BILL BELL

The Cards used their ace to match the full house held by the Physical Education All-Stars yesterday and won Harding's biggest baseball sweepstakes.

An overflow crowd saw the tightest and almost perfect game. Card hurler J. C. Roe and All-Star chunker Gene Jackson hooked up in a double one-hitter that was decided in the first inning on a walk, a stolen base, a ground out, and a single by the superb Bob Camp.

The hero, the star, or whatever you want to call him, was Roe. His more famous uncle took a back seat as the young right-hander had the huge crowd buzzing from the second inning on. Only a rifle-like smash to right by Max Vaughan kept him from pitching a perfect game. The solid poke by Vaughan came on a 1-1 count in the fifth inning.

Meanwhile Jackson wasn't doing bad. Only Camp's RBI hit to center marred his no-hit attempt. Great fielding by Harry Olree and Ralph Moore, up from the Giants, of Roe's towering drive to right field wall got Jackson out of a hole in the third.

The game produced several firsts. One was the fact that the 1-0 score was the lowest in the record books. The others belong to the masterful Roe. He fanned 11 (count 'em) 11 consecutive batters; starting with one out in the second and ending with Vaughan's hit that opened the fifth. In the strike-out spree Roe whiffed Charlie Olree, Don Brown, Vaughan, Jackson, Harry Olree, Sid Horton, Moore, Betts, Charlie Olree again, Buddy Myer, and Brown again. All totaled, Roe piled up the near unbelievable total of 16 strikeouts; also a record.

The winning counter came in the first when lead-off man, Jim Blansett, a regular Card starter, drew a walk. He stole second, moved to third as Roe grounded to Harry Olree, and tallied on Camp's single. That was the day's scoring.

The Cards, regular season Major League champs, only had one scare. That was when they, the All-Stars, got their only runner on. After his hit Vaughan was moved to third on Harry Olree's grass cutter to Lehman Hall and stranded there.

Only one error marked the game. Harry Olree flubbed a scorcher to short by Hall in the fourth.

Card outfielder had a vacation. Not one ball was hit to any of them, save Vaughan's rocketing crack. On the other hand, only three balls were touched by the All-Star gardeners; Camp's hit and two flies, one to Myer and the other to Betts.

After Roe's blazing third strike past Vaughan that ended the 1952 edition of the "Pinky" Berryhill managed affair, both Roe and Jackson grabbed each other and yelled, "Great game."

Fans agreed.

Record breaking dual: Jackson and Roe.

Snure-Snyder Use Rally To Cop Ping Pong Crown

Ken Snyder and Elleen Snure teamed up last night to capture the mixed doubles in the annual Ping Pong tournament. Losing by 2 games to 1, the Snyder-Snure combo won the last two, 31-11 and 31-13.

Their final foe, Ray Farmer and Joan Hayes, took the opening affair 21-18. The next two were split, 21-15 and 21-16.

Earlier in the year Snyder had been eliminated in the men's singles, and in the girls' meet Snure, for the second year, grabbed the women's title.

Gleason's In Doghouse; Decide 12's A Crowd

Leon Gleason and his family are going to the dogs.

Gleason, a freshman from Plain Dealing, La., told a Bison reporter this morning that his collie, Lassie, had given birth to seven little cullies yesterday afternoon.

He also added that Lassie was in "good condition." He did not say what shape he was in.

However, Gleason did say, "Both Lassie and I have requested that no visitors call; especially dogs."

No plans were made for the pups at press time.

Ransburg Tops Cards 3 To 1; Isom's Bat Hot

May 27—Clement Ransburg came through in the season's last regularly scheduled game today as he fired a nifty one-hitter at the league champion Cards to give Ray Wright's Giants 3-1 and a solid second place in the major standings.

Lead off man Jim Blansett blasted a Ransburg offering into center field for a four base smash and the only hit of the Card afternoon. Ransburg, in taking the Giants to their fourth win, whiffed eight, hit two and walked two in the short one-hour and fifty minute dual.

Archie Isom led the day's batlers with a two for two Giant day.

Meanwhile Lehman Hall, on the mound for the Red Birds, allowed the winners only four hits and no earned runs. Hall cut down the first two Giants, Ralph Moore and Wright, in the first frame; but Harry Olree got to first on Ernie Wilkerson's bad throw. Hall gave Don Brown a free pass and then the stage was set for Charlie Olree's hard smack to center, scoring Brown and brother Harry.

The Giants picked up their last run in the sixth on an error by Blansett, a stolen base, and a base knock by Brown.

Minor Stars 15-2 Victors Over Hillis

BY TOM NELSON

May 30—Conway Sexson, star moundman of the third place Travelers, allowed only four scattered hits as he blazed his all-star teammates to a dazzling 15-to-2 victory over the pennant winning Barons in the minor league's number one contest today. Only seven Baron sluggers managed to reach first base. Sexson gave up two passes and one man reached safety on an error.

Although all star offensive men tagged Baron ace John Hillis for nine hits; inadequate team work was the Barons biggest obstacle as they continuously bungled important plays. Hillis, facing some of the league's best, found himself in deepwater several times. Five men added hits to their records in the fifth as the big nine poured seven runs across the platter.

Rex Davis, Vol catcher, was the big boy at the bat for the all-star cause as he poled out three for five and drove home five and scored one of the victor's fifteen total runs. Sexson starred in the batter's role as well as a pitcher as he drove in two runs with a smashing double in left field. He also made the four-bag journal twice.

Glenn "Monkey Shine" Burgess won Baron honors and he collected two of the four Baron hits. Olan Hanes and Les Richesin tagged Sexson for the other two.

The Barons scored one run in the first as Hanes singled and Burgess slammed one in right field to drive him home. They went scoreless throughout the following chapters until the seventh

1951-52 SEASON'S CLOSE; GRAVY SPREAD AMONG FROSH, SOPHS, SENIORS, PROFS

This week closes the books and Harding's murals are through till September and a new bunch of Freshmen come along. It has been a good year. Not just on the diamond; but on the gridiron, the track, the basketball courts, and any other place where good sports get together.

A backward glance and we see the football title going to a tough Faculty bunch as crunching Cliff Ganus, powerful Joe Pryor, (who smashed across the goal for the championship winning T.D.), ground-ace Hugh Rhodes, and the pass-master foxy "Pinky" Berryhill led them to the 14-7 win over the Seniors of Lin Wright, Jimmy Allen, Max Vaughan, and Emil Menes.

The Sophomores in the softball finals. But just a while later the round-ball season drifted in and the Sophs won back prestige by flunking the Frosh to take honors in the wicket match.

The Frosh weren't left out of the gravy. Searcy's own Don Brown led the Greenies to a lop-sided win in the recent Track and Field Day events.

Championship glory wasn't grabbed off by the Juniors. It's a safe guess to say, tho', that if there had been a baseball tournament the Juniors led by J. C. Roe would of had a chance; a whale of chance.

THINGS YOU JUST DON'T FEATURE

... Jimmy Allen not hustling ... Cliff Ganus getting all his weight into a swing at the horsehide ... Jim Blansett hitting "Preacher", whoa!, we mean Joe Roe ... Gene Jackson winning a game without a sore arm ... J. C. Roe pitching a no-hitter with the modern Bison scorers with the books ... Don Hicks throwing hard enough to break a pane of glass ... Joe Betts playing in a league where he doesn't bat .350 ... Lehman Hall throwing two pitching pitches in a minute while on the mound ... Phil Perkins not getting walked or hit by a ball at least once in a game ... Someone knocking down Walt Nelms or Don Brown ... Ray Wright hitting in a game like he does in batting practice.

MINOR EDITION OF UNBELIEVABLES

... Les Richesin catching a third strike from John Hillis ... Al Petrich getting two safe blows in one game ... Sammy Floyd hitting a home run ... Bill Bell standing within two feet of the plate ... Jim McAuley resisting two high pitches in a row ... Someone throwing over Kent Rollman's head at first.

frame when Leo Hall took a trip on balls, stole second, and went on to score when Les Richesin singled.
